“DON’T MAKE A FUSS OVER ME”

In this time of year when we praise God for the saints in heaven and pray for souls on the journey, it is good to reflect on our own journey through death to new life. Many times I hear that people have said that they do not want their relatives to make too much of a fuss over them at the time of their death or that they choose cremation because they do not want anyone looking down at them lying there in state. Cremation is a perfectly acceptable choice.

However, I want to offer a Christian and Catholic perspective on how we should view our own death and why anyone should “make a fuss” over us at that time. The accounts of Jesus’ burial are very well spelled out in the Gospels. Jesus’ body was wrapped in a linen cloth and he was anointed with perfume. Even the pious Joseph of Arimathea who sat with the Sanhedrin believed that it was important to give Jesus a proper burial. And we see that in Jesus becoming a man, God the Father committed Himself to our frailty, a path that would lead to death. So, if God would share our final human destiny, then we can say that God has brought a holy significance to death. Burial, then, is a way to acknowledge that our death is our flesh’s final expression of union with Christ.

But, at the same time, Jesus has transformed this final destiny. Christ not only shares in our humanity through death, but rises from the dead to new and everlasting life. In our Baptism, the very frailty of our flesh is transformed as we enter Christ’s death. Baptism gives us a share in Christ’s empty tomb.

We believe that we will go to heaven when we die. This is a basic belief. But a funeral Mass really brings celebration to the reality of our union with Christ and our sharing in His death and new life. It brings celebration and hope that Jesus, out of love for us, has transformed what it means to die. It means that through his death we will share in His resurrection. Often, in funeral homilies, I try to speak of this union and how Jesus has guided the deceased to this new life through all of the ups and downs of life.

The dimension of Christ uniting Himself with our experience of death and of our union with Christ is worth celebrating when we see that our destination is to be with the communion of saints. We gather around the Eucharistic table to commend the deceased to God with this great faith that they will share in what those who have gone before us are sharing.

Not only is the funeral Mass a way of celebrating our sharing in Christ’s death and new life, but so is the burial. When we bury a deceased family member we not only acknowledge the final outcome of our mortal humanity, but we also let go of them, commending them to God with hope that God will raise them up.

Family members, generally speaking, want to make this fuss. Not only do they celebrate our lives and all of the good memories, but in a funeral, we praise God for sharing in our humanity and leading us, through union with His Son, through death to new life. May God bless you all in your life here on Earth as we prepare for our final destiny, His kingdom.
